

Oxford. March 17.
1872.

My dear Sir.

 Some time ago I received a copy of your "Archives de Zoologie Expérimentale" and I write to thank you for sending it to me. I send you in return a copy of a manual written by me on Comparative Anatomy under the title of "Forms of Animal life". I address it to the care of M. Gernot Baillet, 17 Rue de l'École de Médecine by whom I hope it will be forwarded so as to come safely into your hands.

I have read your memoir "Direction des Etudes Zoologiques" as I have read so many others of your productions with much profit, and I am deeply obliged to you for the privilege of studying them -

If any fortunate chance should bring you to England, I hope you will not omit to visit this University. I should consider myself greatly honoured if I could be of any service to you.

I am

Yours Truly

George Rolleston.

À Monsieur

Monsieur Le Professeur
