Dear Sir,

Could you kindly put me in the way of obtaining a copy of your paper entitled

"Histoire de la testacelle" which appeared in the Archives Zoologie Expérimentale. (2) vol 5 (1887), as I am much interested in the genus and am working at our British Species.

I am dear Sir

yours faithfully

Dear Sir

You will see from the copy of my Journal of Malacology, which I am sending to you that I am interested in the genus Tectacella

I have been working at the internal anatomy of our British species with a view to making out specific differences & I have been examining the beautiful figures in your celebrated paper on the anatomy of the genus. It would be doing me a kindness, if you would be so good as to tell me if in the internal anatomical work you always described & figured the organs of Tectacella relativoides or if sometimes other species were utilized (& the references to figures if the latter case)

I have no copy of my own of your "Histoire de la Tectacelle" & should be most happy to have one could you spare it. Yours faithfully Professor Lacaze Duthiers. Wilfred Danks Webb
